

During the past 37 years Ms. Trotter has established an international reputation as a lead actress in film, television and stage production. Roles in theatre have included significant work in both classics and modern pieces: she has performed in Canadian plays by Anne Chislett, Timothy Findley, David French, John Murell and Sharon Pollock among others as well as various Shakespeare, comic, tragic, and lyric theatre productions. She has collaborated with Canadian luminaries such as Martha Henry, Bill Hutt, Brent Carver, Robin Phillips, Richard Monette, RH Thompson, Al Waxman, Bill Shatner and Donald Sutherland. Roles in cinema include Marie Currie in Glory Enough for All, and working alongside actors such as Charles Bronson, Angelina Jolie, James Woods, the three Carradine brothers, Claire Bloom, Clive Owen, Gary Sineese, Whoopi Goldberg, Edward Woodward, Jon Voight and Sophia Loren, to name a few. Her numerous roles in television include Being Erica, The Murdoch Mysteries, The Jane Show and CSI. She has also directed for the National Film Board and for women in the director's chair as well as for the stage. Ms Trotter has taught Shakespeare at George Brown College, is co-founder of a program supporting kids at risk called youth and the law and for several years has been part of training programs for Canadian judges teaching communication skills in the courtroom.

The Department of Dramatic Arts welcomes a Special Guest Alumna:

Kate Trotter

Actress and recipient of the "Distinguished Alumni Prize for the Humanities" for 2012

Friday, March 30, 2012

7:00 - 9:00 p.m. in the Studio Theatre ST 107

On March 30, 2012 from 7pm-9pm the Department of Dramatic Arts will host a special event to introduce Kate Trotter to our current students and aspiring artists. A celebrated actress of theatre, cinema and television, Ms. Trotter graduated from Brock University with a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Dramatic Literature, First-Class Standing, in 1975, and the National Theatre School in 1978.

All DART students, faculty and alumnae are welcome to join the Department as we celebrate her success and raise a glass to toast this alumna of Brock Theatre.
